Alexys International is committed to design, supply and support of industry leading technology for Healthcare. Our systems are built on proven technology and based upon industry standards.

With today's solutions being highly integrated and the requirement of seamless operation, Alexys International ensures that appropriate technology is delivered on time and on budget.

The Alexys Aptus system is the most flexible Critical Messaging Platform in the market with high level and low level interfaces providing real time access to critical system information, including Nurse Call, Building Management Systems, Fire Panels and much more. Remote monitoring allows for industry leading uptime of critical systems, removes the tyranny of distance and guarantees availability of technical assistance.

You can be assured that we meet or exceed the industry standards for availability.

Alexys support a range of systems including legacy nurse call. Our maintenance agreements include an annual health check, providing you a detailed report of your systems condition giving you confidence that all systems are tested and are on the latest version of software. By keeping your software current you are always receiving any system improvements and feature upgrades, including new time saving features.

At Alexys we understand the critical nature of the systems we supply and support, we are committed to providing industry leading products, knowledge and support for Healthcare.
